Why do we often feel that others are paying more attention to us than they really are? The spotlight effect means seeing ourselves at center stage, thus intuitively overestimating the extent ① to which others' attention is aimed at us. Timothy Lawson explored the spotlight effect by having college students ② change into a sweatshirt with a big popular logo on the front before meeting a group of peers. Nearly 40 percent of them ③ were sure the other students would remember what the shirt said, but only 10 percent actually did. Most observers did not even notice ④ that the students changed sweatshirts after leaving the room for a few minutes. In another experiment, even noticeable clothes, such as a T-shirt with singer Barry Manilow on it, ⑤ provoking only 23 percent of observers to notice far fewer than the 50 percent estimated by the students sporting the 1970s soft rock singer on their chests.

There is a lesson for museums in Dewey's philosophy of experience. If museums are ① to foster experience that is meaningful, they must balance objective environmental conditions with unknown possible consequences. They must guide visitors purposively into a world of expanding subject matter. Aimlessly presenting a succession of excitations without a form that sustains them throughout ② fails to lead to growth, yielding ultimate incoherency and arrest. At the same time, enforcing the necessity of doing one thing as a coerced antecedent to the occurrence of ③ another is equally stifling. Dewey suggests that an end is not simply a last and closing term, but is a phase of a continuing process composed of prior ends ④ of which it becomes a productive part. Museums can use their resources creatively, ⑤ conferred upon them through their interactions qualities previously unrealized or unrecognized. And through such material engagements new orders of experiential consequences are generated. antecedent 선행 과제, 전례

Within the space of a few decades around the middle of the eleventh century, there was a dramatic shift in the source of fish from around 80 per cent freshwater to 80 per cent saltwater fish like cod, haddock and herring. At the time, demand was increasing ① rapidly thanks to a combination of population growth and urbanization. Fresh fish supplies were in freefall as a result of ② human-caused habitat change in rivers, lakes and estuaries. With the spread of agriculture, forests were felled and land deep ploughed for crops. Soil erosion soon turned fast-running, cool and clear water into sluggish, warm and turbid water, ③ which species like salmon did not enjoy. Nor did salmon, and other fish that migrated from sea to rivers to spawn, ④ to benefit from the construction of thousands of dams across Europe's rivers to supply power for corn mills and other industries. With their migration routes ⑤ blocked, freshwater fisheries' production collapsed. estuary 포구, 강어귀 turbid 탁한 spawn (물고기·개구리 등이) 알을 낳다

정답 및 해설

1. [정답] ⑤

⑤번이 포함된 문장의 주어는 'even noticeable clothes'입니다. 이 문장에는 정동사가 없으므로, 준동사 provoking은 동사 역할을 할 수 없습니다. 과거 시제의 정동사인 'provoked'가 와야 합니다.

2. [정답] ⑤

[해설]

⑤번은 분사구문 자리이다. 주절의 동사는 'can use'이며, 콤마(,) 뒤에서 주절의 주어 'Museums'를 의미상의 주어로 하여 '이전에는 실현되지 않았던 특성들을 부여하면서'라는 능동의 의미를 전달해야 하므로 현재분사 conferring이 적절하다. conferred를 사용하면 수동의 의미가 되어 문맥상 어색하다.

① to foster는 be to 용법(의도)으로 사용되었다. ② fails는 동명사 주어(presenting)에 대한 단수 동사이다. ③ another는 'another thing'을 의미하는 대명사로 적절하다. ④ of which는 'prior ends'를 선행사로 받는 소유격 관계대명사절을 이끈다.

3. [정답] ④

[해설]

④번은 부정어 Nor가 문두에 와서 주어(salmon, and other fish)와 동사가 도치된 구문이다. 조동사 did가 앞으로 나갔으므로 뒤에는 동사원형 benefit이 와야 한다. to benefit은 올 수 없다. ① rapidly는 동사 was increasing을 수식하는 부사이다. ② human-caused는 habitat change를 수식하는 과거분사형 형용사이다. ③ which는 선행사 water를 가리키는 목적격 관계대명사이다. ⑤ blocked는 'with + 명사 + 분사' 구문에서 명사(their migration routes)가 '막힌' 것이므로 수동의 의미를 지닌 과거분사가 올바르다.
