Any attempt to model musical behavior or perception in a general way is filled with difficulties. With regard to models of perception, the question arises of whose perception we are trying to model — even if we confine ourselves to a particular culture and historical environment. Surely the perception of music varies greatly between listeners of different levels of training; indeed, a large part of music education is devoted to developing and enriching (and therefore likely changing) these listening processes. While this may be true, I am concerned here with fairly basic aspects of perception — particularly meter and key — which I believe are relatively consistent across listeners. Anecdotal evidence suggests, for example, that most people are able to "find the beat" in a typical folk song or classical piece. This is not to say that there is complete uniformity in this regard — there may be occasional disagreements, even among experts, as to how we hear the tonality or meter of a piece. But I believe _____. 3점

- ① our devotion to narrowing these differences will emerge
- ② fundamental musical behaviors evolve within communities
- ③ these varied perceptions enrich shared musical experiences
- ④ the commonalities between us far outweigh the differences
- ⑤ diversity rather than uniformity in musical processes counts

More than just having territories, animals also partition them. And this insight turned out to be particularly useful for zoo husbandry. An animal's territory has an internal arrangement that Heini Hediger compared to the inside of a person's house. Most of us assign separate functions to separate rooms, but even if you look at a one-room house you will find the same internal specialization. In a cabin or a mud hut, or even a Mesolithic cave from 30,000 years ago, this part is for cooking, that part is for sleeping; this part is for making tools and weaving, that part is for waste. We keep _____. To a varying extent, other animals do the same. A part of an animal's territory is for eating, a part for sleeping, a part for swimming or wallowing, a part may be set aside for waste, depending on the species of animal.

- ① an interest in close neighbors
- ② a neat functional organization
- ③ a stock of emergency supplies
- ④ a distance from potential rivals
- ⑤ a strictly observed daily routine

In spite of the likeness between the fictional and real world, the fictional world deviates from the real one in one important respect.

- (A) The author has selected the content according to his own worldview and his own conception of relevance, in an attempt to be neutral and objective or convey a subjective view on the world. Whatever the motives, the author's subjective conception of the world stands between the reader and the original, untouched world on which the story is based.
- (B) Because of the inner qualities with which the individual is endowed through heritage and environment, the mind functions as a filter; every outside impression that passes through it is filtered and interpreted. However, the world the reader encounters in literature is already processed and filtered by another consciousness.
- (C) The existing world faced by the individual is in principle an infinite chaos of events and details before it is organized by a human mind. This chaos only gets processed and modified when perceived by a human mind.

- ① (A) - (C) - (B)
- ③ (B) - (C) - (A)
- ⑤ (C) - (B) - (A)

- ② (B) - (A) - (C)
- ④ (C) - (A) - (B)

Culture operates in ways we can consciously consider and discuss but also in ways of which we are far less cognizant.

- (A) In some cases, however, we are far less aware of why we believe a certain claim to be true, or how we are to explain why certain social realities exist. Ideas about the social world become part of our worldview without our necessarily being aware of the source of the particular idea or that we even hold the idea at all.
- (B) When we have to offer an account of our actions, we consciously understand which excuses might prove acceptable, given the particular circumstances we find ourselves in. In such situations, we use cultural ideas as we would use a particular tool.
- (C) We select the cultural notion as we would select a screwdriver: certain jobs call for a Phillips head while others require an Allen wrench. Whichever idea we insert into the conversation to justify our actions, the point is that our motives are discursively available to us. They are not hidden.

- ① (A) - (C) - (B)
- ③ (B) - (C) - (A)
- ⑤ (C) - (B) - (A)

- ② (B) - (A) - (C)
- ④ (C) - (A) - (B)

If not, the robot might endlessly chase itself rather than the blocks.

People involved in the conception and engineering of robots designed to perceive and act know how fundamental is the ability to discriminate oneself from other entities in the environment. Without such an ability, no goal-oriented action would be possible. (①) Imagine that you have to build a robot able to search for blocks scattered in a room in order to pile them. (②) Even this simple task would require that your machine be able to discriminate between stimulation that originates from its own machinery and stimulation that originates from the blocks in the environment. (③) Suppose that you equip your robot with an artificial eye and an artificial arm to detect, grab, and pile the blocks. (④) To be successful, your machine will have to have some built-in system enabling it to discriminate between the detection of a block and the detection of its own arm. (⑤) Your robot would engage in circular, self-centered acts that would drive it away from the target or external goal.

In reality, objects do not conform to a linear lifecycle model; instead, they undergo breakdowns, await repairs, are stored away, or find themselves relegated to the basement, only to be rediscovered and repurposed later.

By their very nature, the concepts of maintenance and repair are predominantly examined from a process-oriented perspective. (①) The focus in related scholarly discourse often revolves around the lifespan or lifecycle of objects and technologies. (②) In this context, maintenance and repair are considered practices that have the potential to prolong the existence of objects, ensuring their sustained utilization over an extended period. (③) Krebs and Weber critically engage with anthropomorphic metaphors that imply a biography of things, appropriately highlighting that conventional understanding of the lifecycle of a technology, from its acquisition to its disposal from the household, provides an incomplete definition. (④) Additionally, objects may enter recycling or second-hand cycles, leading to a dynamic afterlife marked by diverse applications. (⑤) As such, the life of an object exhibits a far more complicated and adaptive path than a simplistic linear progression.

필자는 음악적 인식이 개인 간에 크게 다르다는 점을 인정하면서도('varies greatly'), 박자나 조성과 같은 기본적인 측면에서는 청자들 사이에 '상대적으로 일관적(relatively consistent)'이라고 주장한다. 전문가들 사이에서도 약간의 불일치가 있을 수 있음을 언급한 후('not to say that there is complete uniformity'), 'But'으로 글의 흐름을 전환하며 자신의 최종적인 믿음을 강조한다. 따라서 차이점에도 불구하고 '우리 사이의 공통점이 차이점을 훨씬 능가한다'는 내용이 빈칸에 들어가는 것이 논리적으로 가장 적합하다.

2. [정답] ②

본문은 동물들도 자신의 영역을 분할하며, 이를 사람의 집에 비유한다. 사람이 집의 방마다 다른 기능을 부여하듯('assign separate functions to separate rooms'), 원룸 주택이나 동굴에서도 요리, 수면, 도구 제작, 폐기물 처리 공간이 나뉘어 있다고 설명한다. 동물들도 마찬가지로 먹는 곳, 자는 곳 등을 구분한다. 이는 우리가 '깔끔한 기능적 조직(a neat functional organization)'을 유지한다는 것을 보여준다.

주어진 글은 허구의 세계가 현실과 중요한 한 가지 면에서 다르다고 말한다. (C)는 먼저 개인이 마주하는 '현실 세계'가 인간의 정신에 의해 조직되기 전에는 무한한 혼돈(infinite chaos) 상태라고 정의한다. (B)는 이어서 '그러나(However)' 독자가 문학에서 만나는 세계는 이미 '다른 의식(another consciousness)'에 의해 처리되고 여과된(processed and filtered) 세계라고 대조하며 설명한다. (A)는 (B)에서 언급된 '다른 의식'이 바로 '작가(The author)'임을 밝히고, 작가의 주관적 개념이 독자와 원래 세계 사이에 존재한다고 구체화한다. 따라서 현실 세계 설명(C) → 여과된 허구 세계 제시(B) → 여과 주체(작가) 설명(A) 순서가 가장 논리적이다.

4. [정답] ③

주어진 글은 문화가 우리가 '의식적으로(consciously)' 고려하는 방식과 '훨씬 덜 인식하는(far less cognizant)' 방식으로 작동한다고 제시하며 대조의 틀을 마련한다. (B)는 '의식적으로 이해하는(consciously understand)' 경우를 설명하며 도구 사용에 비유한다. (C)는 (B)의 도구 비유를 '스크루드 라이버'로 구체화하며, 우리의 동기가 숨겨져 있지 않다고(not hidden) 말하며 의식적인 측면의 설명을 마무리한다. (A)는 'however(그러나)'를 통해 대조를 이루며, 우리가 '훨씬 덜 인식하는(far less aware)' 경우, 즉 무의식적인 측면을 설명한다. 따라서 의식적 측면 설명(B-C) → 무의식적 측면 설명(A)의 순서인 (B)-(C)-(A)가 논리적이다.

The sentence preceding slot ⑤ establishes the crucial requirement for the robot: a system to 'discriminate between the detection of a block and the detection of its own arm.' The inserted sentence begins with 'If not,' directly referring to the failure to meet this requirement. It then describes a specific consequence ('chase itself'), which is then generalized and elaborated upon in the sentence that follows slot ⑤ ('engage in circular, self-centered acts').

주어진 문장은 '현실에서는(In reality)' 사물이 선형적인 생애 주기 모델을 따르지 않고, 고장, 수리, 보관, 용도 변경 등 복잡한 과정을 거친다고 설명한다. 이는 기존의 선형적 생애 주기 모델에 대한 비판을 구체적인 예시로 뒷받침하는 내용이다. 글의 흐름상, 사물의 생애 주기에 대한 기존의 이해가 불완전하다는 비판이 제기된(③번 뒤 문장) 후에, 그 비판에 대한 구체적 예시로서 주어진 문장이 들어가는 것이 가장 자연스럽다. 또한, ④번 뒤 문장의 '게다가(Additionally)'는 주어진 문장의 예시에 추가적인 예시를 더하는 역할을 하므로 ④이 가장 적절하다.
