To balance the need for breadth (everyone feels a bit burned out) and depth (some are so burned out, they can no longer do their jobs), we ought to think of burnout not as a state but as a spectrum. In most public discussion of burnout, we talk about workers who "are burned out," as if that status were black and white. A black-and-white view cannot account for the variety of burnout experience, though. If there is a clear line between burned out and not, as there is with a lightbulb, then we have no good way to categorize people who say they are burned out but still manage to do their work competently. Thinking about burnout as a spectrum solves this problem; those who claim burnout but are not debilitated by it are simply dealing with a partial or less-severe form of it. They are experiencing burnout without being burned out. Burnout hasn't had the last word.

- ① Public discussion of burnout has not reached an end.
- ② There still exists room for a greater degree of exhaustion.
- ③ All-or-nothing criteria are applicable to burnout symptoms.
- ④ Exhaustion is overcome in different ways based on its severity.
- ⑤ Degrees of exhaustion are shaped by individuals' perceptions.

Not only musicians and psychologists, but also committed music enthusiasts and experts often voice the opinion that the beauty of music lies in an expressive deviation from the exactly defined score. Concert performances become interesting and gain in attraction from the fact that they go far beyond the information printed in the score. In his early studies on musical performance, Carl Seashore discovered that musicians only rarely play two equal notes in exactly the same way. Within the same metric structure, there is a wide potential of variations in tempo, volume, tonal quality and intonation. Such variation is based on the composition but diverges from it individually. We generally call this 'expressivity'. This explains why we do not lose interest when we hear different artists perform the same piece of music. It also explains why it is worthwhile for following generations to repeat the same repertoire. New, inspiring interpretations help us to expand our understanding, which serves to enrich and animate the music scene.

Viewing the stress response as a resource can transform the physiology of fear into the biology of courage. It can turn a threat into a challenge and can help you ① do your best under pressure. Even when the stress doesn't feel helpful — as in the case of anxiety — welcoming it can transform ② it into something that is helpful: more energy, more confidence, and a greater willingness to take action. You can apply this strategy in your own life anytime you notice signs of stress. When you feel your heart beating or your breath quickening, ③ realizing that it is your body's way of trying to give you more energy. If you notice tension in your body, remind yourself ④ that the stress response gives you access to your strength. Sweaty palms? Remember what it felt like ⑤ to go on your first date — palms sweat when you're close to something you want.

What is soft-path river engineering? One way to visualize its spirit is to liken it to a footpath in the forest. Suppose a tree falls across a footpath. A soft-path response would be simply to redirect the trail around the fallen tree. A more interventionist response would be to ①remove the tree and restore the original route. A still more interventionist response might be to straighten and pave the path to insert it more ②permanently in the landscape. The true high-modernist step would, of course, be to ③create a superhighway that removes the landscape and bulldozes straight through all obstacles in the topography. Soft-path engineering has the unique advantage of intellectual ④modesty with respect to what we actually know about river movement and its environmental effects. In contrast to hard-path engineering, soft-path engineering accepts variability in the river's movement as ⑤insignificant until proven otherwise. Backwaters, short-lived wetlands, braids and channels, swamps— all undesirable to hard-path engineering — are presumed by soft-path engineers to be ecologically important.

One of the factors determining the use of technologies of communication will be the kinds of investments made in equipment and personnel; who makes them, and what they expect in return. There is no guarantee that the investment will necessarily be in forms of communication that . Because the ownership of investment funds tends to be in the hands of commercial organisations, the modernisation of communications infrastructure only takes place on the basis of potential profitability. Take, for example, the installation of fibre-optic communications cable across the African continent. A number of African nations are involved in the development but its operational structures will be oriented to those who can pay for access. Many states that might wish to use it for education and information may not only find it too expensive but also simply unavailable to them. There can be no doubt that the development has been led by investment opportunity rather than community demand.

- ① require minimal cost and effort to maintain
- ② are most appropriate for the majority of people
- ③ are in line with current standards and global norms
- ④ employ some of the most advanced technologies
- ⑤ promote the commercial interests of companies

We understand that the segregation of our consciousness into present, past, and future is both a fiction and an oddly self-referential framework; your present was part of your mother's future, and your children's past will be in part your present. Nothing is generally wrong with structuring our consciousness of time in this conventional manner, and it often works well enough. In the case of climate change, however, the sharp division of time into past, present, and future has been desperately misleading and has, most importantly, hidden from view the extent of the responsibility of those of us alive now. The narrowing of our consciousness of time smooths the way to divorcing ourselves from responsibility for developments in the past and the future with which our lives are in fact deeply intertwined. In the climate case, it is not that _____. It is that the realities are obscured from view by the partitioning of time, and so questions of responsibility toward the past and future do not arise naturally.

- ① all our efforts prove to be effective and are thus encouraged
- ② sufficient scientific evidence has been provided to us
- ③ future concerns are more urgent than present needs
- ④ our ancestors maintained a different frame of time
- ⑤ we face the facts but then deny our responsibility

글의 핵심은 번아웃을 흑백 논리가 아닌 스펙트럼으로 봐야 한다는 것이다. 밑줄 친 'Burnout hasn't had the last word'는 번아웃이 최종적이고 완전한 상태가 아니라는 의미이다. 즉, 부분적으로 번아웃을 겪는 상태에서 완전히 소진되는 상태로 더 나아갈 수 있는 여지가 있다는 것을 함축한다. 이는 '더 큰 정도의 소진을 위한 여지가 여전히 존재한다'는 ②번의 의미와 통한다.

음악의 아름다움은 악보로부터의 'expressive deviation(표현적인 벗어남)'에 있으며, 연주자들은 두 개의 동일한 음을 정확히 똑같이 연주하는 경우가 거의 없다고 말한다. 이러한 'variation(변주)' 또는 'expressivity(표현성)' 때문에 우리는 다른 연주자가 같은 곡을 연주하는 것을 들어도 흥미를 잃지 않는다고 설명한다. 이는 음악 연주에서 변주의 가치를 강조하는 내용이므로 'Never the Same(결코 같지 않음)'이라는 제목이 적절하다.

③번은 주절의 동사가 필요한 자리이다. 'When you feel ~, '는 부사절이므로, 주절에 해당하는 명령문이 와야 한다. 따라서 준동사인 realizing이 아니라 동사원형 Realize가 와서 '~라는 것을 깨달아라'라는 명령문이 되어야 한다. ① do는 사역동사 help의 목적격 보어로 동사원형 또는 to부정사가 올 수 있다. ② it은 앞서 언급된 a resource를 가리키는 대명사이다. ④ that은 remind의 직접목적어 역할을 하는 명사절을 이끄는 접속사이다. ⑤ to go는 가주어 it에 대한 진주어 to부정사구이다.

4. [정답] ⑤

Soft-path 공법은 자연의 변화를 수용하고 최소한으로 개입하는 방식이다. 지문 마지막 문장에서 'soft-path' 공학자들은 강물의 변동성에서 생기는 지형들(역류, 습지 등)을 '생태학적으로 중요하게(ecologically important)' 여긴다고 했다. 따라서 ⑤번에서 'soft-path' 공법이 강의 움직임의 '가변성(variability)'을 '중요하지 않다고(insignificant)' 받아들인다는 것은 문맥에 맞지 않다. '자연스러운' 또는 '중요한' 것으로 받아들여야 한다.

The passage argues that commercial investments in communication technology prioritize 'potential profitability' over 'community demand.' This leads to infrastructure that serves only those who can pay, neglecting the needs of the broader population, such as for education. Therefore, there is no guarantee that investments will be in forms of communication that 'are most appropriate for the majority of people.'

필자는 시간을 과거, 현재, 미래로 엄격히 구분하는 인식이 기후 변화에 대한 우리의 책임을 보지 못하게 만든다고 주장한다. 문제의 본질은 시간 분할로 인해 현실이 가려져(realities are obscured) 책임의 문제가 자연스럽게 떠오르지 않는다는 것이다. 따라서 빈칸에는 '우리가 사실을 직시하고 나서 책임을 부정하는 것'이 아니라는 내용이 들어가야, 문제의 원인이 의도적인 부정이 아니라 구조적인 인식의 왜곡에 있다는 글의 핵심 논리와 부합한다.
