To Whom It May Concern, I recently visited the Lambsford History Foundation's exhibition about the Qukkon Gold Rush. The collection of pictures, tools, and historical documents made the gold miners arriving to Qukkon come to life. This reminded me of when I lived in Qukkon and worked in the mining industry. Because of this, I'm wondering if there are volunteer guide positions available for this exhibition. I can share my experiences working in the extreme cold of Qukkon. Again, I would be thankful if you could tell me about the availability of volunteer positions as a guide. Sincerely, Jonathan Hamilton

It is a strategic and tactical mistake to give an offensive position away to those who will use it to attack, criticize, and blame. Since opponents will undoubtedly attack, criticize, and blame, anyway, the advantages of being proactive, airing one's own "dirty laundry," and "telling on oneself" are too significant to ignore. Chief among these advantages is the ability to control the first messages and how a story is first framed. That leaves others having to respond to you instead of the other way around. This approach is appropriately termed "stealing thunder." When an organization steals thunder, it breaks the news about its own crisis before the crisis is discovered by the media or other interested parties. In experimental research by Arpan and Roskos-Ewoldsen, stealing thunder in a crisis situation, as opposed to allowing the information to be first disclosed by another party, resulted in substantially higher credibility ratings. As significant, the authors found that "credibility ratings associated with stealing thunder directly predicted perceptions of the crisis as less severe."

Once an event is noticed, an onlooker must decide if it is truly an emergency. Emergencies are not always clearly (a) labeled as such; "smoke" pouring into a waiting room may be caused by fire, or it may merely indicate a leak in a steam pipe. Screams in the street may signal an attack or a family quarrel. A man lying in a doorway may be having a coronary or he may simply be sleeping off a drunk. A person trying to interpret a situation often looks at those around him to see how he should react. If everyone else is calm and indifferent, he will tend to remain so; if everyone else is reacting strongly, he is likely to become alert. This tendency is not merely blind conformity; ordinarily we derive much valuable information about new situations from how others around us behave. It's a (b) rare traveler who, in picking a roadside restaurant, chooses to stop at one where no other cars appear in the parking lot. But occasionally the reactions of others provide (c) accurate information. The studied nonchalance of patients in a dentist's waiting room is a poor indication of their inner anxiety. It is considered embarrassing to "lose your cool" in public. In a potentially acute situation, then, everyone present will appear more (d) unconcerned than he is in fact. A crowd can thus force (e) inaction on its members by implying, through its passivity, that an event is not an emergency. Any individual in such a crowd fears that he may appear a fool if he behaves as though it were.

Competitive activities can be more than just performance showcases ①which the best is recognized and the rest are overlooked. The provision of timely, constructive feedback to participants on performance ②is an asset that some competitions and contests offer. In a sense, all competitions give feedback. For many, this is restricted to information about whether the participant is an award- or prizewinner. The provision of that type of feedback can be interpreted as shifting the emphasis to demonstrating superior performance but not ③necessarily excellence. The best competitions promote excellence, not just winning or "beating" others. The emphasis on superiority is what we typically see as ④fostering a detrimental effect of competition. Performance feedback requires that the program go beyond the "win, place, or show" level of feedback. Information about performance can be very helpful, not only to the participant who does not win or place but also to those who ⑤do.

Some environments are more likely to lead to fossilization and subsequent discovery than others. Thus, we cannot assume that more fossil evidence from a particular period or place means that more individuals were present at that time, or in that place. It may just be that the circumstances at one period of time, or at one location, were more favourable for fossilization than they were at other times, or in other places. Likewise, the absence of hominin fossil evidence at a particular time or place does not have the same implication as its presence. As the saying goes, 'absence of evidence is not evidence of absence'. Similar logic suggests that taxa are likely to have arisen before they first appear in the fossil record, and they are likely to have survived beyond the time of their most recent appearance in the fossil record. Thus, the first appearance datum, and the last appearance datum of taxa in the hominin fossil record are likely to be conservative statements about the times of origin and extinction of a taxon.

Since fossilization and fossil discovery are affected by ____ (A) ____ conditions, the fossil evidence of a taxon cannot definitely ____ (B) ____ its population size or the times of its appearance and extinction.

글의 후반부에 'I'm wondering if there are volunteer guide positions available'와 'I would be thankful if you could tell me about the availability of volunteer positions as a guide'라는 직접적인 표현을 통해 전시회 안내 자원봉사직이 있는지 문의하는 것이 글의 목적임을 명확히 알 수 있다.

2. [정답] ②

이 글은 'stealing thunder(선수 치기)'라는 전략, 즉 위기 상황에서 다른 사람보다 먼저 자신의 문제를 공개하는 것이 유리하다고 설명한다. 이는 첫 메시지를 통제하고, 신뢰도를 높이며, 위기를 덜 심각하게 보이게 하는 등 '위기 관리에서 주도권을 잡는 것의 중요성'을 강조하므로 2번이 주제로 가장 적절하다.

3. [정답] ①

이 글은 애매한 상황에서 사람들이 주변 사람들의 반응을 보고 어떻게 행동할지 결정하는 경향이 있음을 설명한다. 특히 다른 사람들이 침착하면 자신도 그렇게 행동하게 되어, 실제 위기 상황임에도 불구하고 군중 전체가 아무 행동도 하지 않는 결과를 낼 수 있다고 말한다. 이는 우리의 판단이 독립적이지 않고 군중의 영향을 받는다는 것을 보여주므로, '우리는 독립적으로 판단하는가? 군중의 효과'라는 제목의 ①번이 가장 적절하다.

밑줄 친 ① which 뒤에는 'the best is recognized and the rest are overlooked'라는 완전한 절이 오고 있다. 관계대명사 which는 불완전한 절을 이끌어야 한다. 선행사 'performance showcases'는 장소의 의미를 가지므로, 관계부사 where 또는 'in which'로 바꾸어야 문법적으로 올바르다.

본문은 화석화와 발견이 특정 시기나 장소의 '상황(circumstances)', 즉 환경적 조건에 의해 영향을 받는다고 설명하므로 (A)에는 'environmental'이 적절합니다. 이러한 조건의 차이 때문에 화석 증거만으로는 특정 분류군의 개체 수나 출현 및 멸종 시기를 명확하게 알 수 없다고 주장합니다. 따라서 화석 증거는 이러한 사실들을 명확히 밝혀줄(clarify) 수 없으므로 (B)에는 'clarify'가 적절합니다.
